Policy Statement

The properly licensed affiliates and subsidiaries of Magellan Health, Inc. (Magellan) review claim submissions to ensure they comply with industry standard practices. According to the American College of Cardiology Appropriate Use Criteria for Echocardiography, color flow Doppler is only medically necessary for Stress Echocardiography (SE) services when performed for hemodynamics. Dopplers are considered “not medically necessary” by Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) when performed routinely without a clinical indication. Magellan has established a claim edit to review Doppler add-on codes to ensure claims are only paid in appropriate situations.

Purpose

To review Doppler add-on codes to ensure claims for SE services are only paid in appropriate situations.

Standards

- I. Magellan routinely uses claim edits to ensure that claims are paid accurately and are consistent with industry standards. Claim edits can also address inaccurate or inappropriate billing practices of some providers who implement billing patterns designed to maximize revenue without appropriate justification.
- II. A specific claim edit is used to ensure claims for Doppler add-on codes are only paid when appropriate.
- III. The Doppler add-on codes (93320, 93321, and 93325) are appropriate with Echocardiography (TTE and TEE) (93303, 93304, 93306, 93307, 93308, 93312, 93313, 93314, 93315, 93316, 93317, and 93318) but are only appropriate with Stress Echocardiography (SE) (93350, 93351, and 93352) for limited medical conditions.
 - A. According to the American College of Cardiology Appropriate Use Criteria for Echocardiography, color flow Doppler is an important element of a comprehensive TTE/TEE evaluating relevant cardiac structures and hemodynamics.
 - B. Stress Echocardiography (SE) includes Doppler when performed for hemodynamics. That is, the use of Doppler with SE is appropriate only for specific diagnoses.
 - C. Doppler is considered “not medically necessary” by CMS when performed routinely without a clinical indication.
 - D. A claim edit has been designed to pay Doppler codes with SE only when an appropriate diagnostic code appears on the claim. Claim edit rules for SE and Doppler are described below.

CARDIAC CLAIM EDIT – STRESS ECHO AND DOPPLER ADD-ON

1. When a claim for SE and Doppler occur on the same date of service and there is no claim for TTE or TEE, then an appropriate diagnosis must be on the claim to be paid. See attached grid for diagnosis codes.

Doppler with Stress
Echo-Approved Diaç

2. If a diagnosis code for one of the approved clinical conditions is on either the SE or Doppler claim line, payment is allowed for both the SE and the Doppler (when the SE has been authorized).
3. If the diagnosis code on the claim is not for one of the approved clinical conditions, payment is allowed for the SE (if authorized), but not for the Doppler.
4. If a SE or Echo (TTE/TEE) is not authorized, then payment for a related Doppler would also not be paid since there was no authorization.
5. If a Doppler is billed with a TTE or TEE (that has been authorized), then payment for the Doppler is allowed.
